C. of P. Enters Safety Contest

The City of Torrance has sent in its contest report for the National Pedestrian Protection Contest sponsored by the American Automobile Association. Police Chief John Stroh reported this week.

Last year the pedestrian fatality record was four persons compared to one in 1949, he said.

To help improve the pedestrian fatality record Stroh recommended pedestrians wear or carry something white when walking on the highways or crossing streets at night.

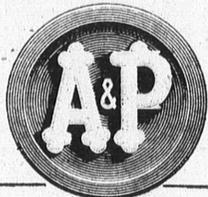

He reminded motorists that wet streets during winter help cause accidents as does poor visibility and cautioned motorists to take it slower after dark.

Steel Hour Moves Into 28th Week

The U. S. Steel Hour moves into the 28th week of the season Sunday, March 18, with a full hour presentation of "Jeannie," featuring an all-star cast, to be heard via stations of the NBC network at 5:30 p.m.

SEA-GOING SOLDIER . . . Since his outfit, the 409th Engineer Special Brigade, was federalized last October, First Lieutenant Hebert J. Cohn (left) has been having difficulty deciding whether he is a soldier, sailor, or merchant. Actually he is all three. Lt. Cohn is currently serving with the Army Reserve Corps' 371st Boat and Shore Regiment, which is training one weekend a month at Fort MacArthur. The officers must be proficient in both sea and shore duties, so here Lt. Cohn learns about control gadgets of a twin-engine landing craft from Captain Wallace M. McKnight (center) and Capt. Don B. Davis. In private life Lt. Cohn is proprietor of the Torrance Men's Shop on Sartori avenue. He has long been active in local YMCA activities.—(Official U.S. Army photo.)
